David,
Secretary Clinton relayed your note and we are very glad to work with your team. Ambassador Princeton Lyman is headed to Addis in another day to participate in the talks and am sure he will be glad to continue working together with AGI. Will be in touch to make sure we make all of the connections.

Best,
Wendy

Subject: South Sudan

Dear Hillary:

Our offices are in touch for us to meet on October 3rd. The Convention next week won't be the same without you.

I just wanted to touch base about South Sudan. As I wrote before I am doing a little bit of work there. I am mentoring staff of Tony's charity (Africa Governance Initiative, which works to help African governments organise themselves) who are based in the Presidential office in Juba. I visited in May and will go back.

There is a mountain to climb but I met the Juba based staff member last week your visit was clearly positive. You made things happen and showed them sufficient understanding to make them think straight(er).

The US like AGI see high priority in getting the Office of the President to function better, set priorities, focus on delivery etc. Now there is a chance of oil revenue flowing we are keen to get the government focussing on its core tasks of development. It would be enormously helpful if your people in Juba could work closely with the AGI on this. (USAID in other places are very supportive of AGI work).

If you can give this a push that would be great.

Many thanks.

David

Madam Secretary,

I don't usually forward emails such as below, but given meeting at 5pm, wanted to make sure you knew that situation had changed in the Sinai, in the first instance, for the better. [REDACTED] b5 per DOS

[REDACTED] It is also important to note that in a different email, while this was still an active issue, David reported that Ros Lethinen had asked Israel directly about desire for Congressional action and Israel told her, after consultation including BN, that things were proceeding quietly and no action by Congress was desired.

A large rectangular area at the top of the page is completely redacted, appearing as a solid white box. To the right of this box, there is a small, dark, cross-like symbol.

We will monitor the situation on the ground for indications that the force withdrawals are in fact taking place.

Heading home today after useful trip to Beijing, Moscow and London. Had long secure call with Bill from London yesterday so he could head to vacation. Also spoke with Tom before he took off. Know you are taking a much needed break as well. Will work through Cheryl and Jake and others as needed over the next two weeks and seek to not disturb your, Bill's or Tom's short break.

Iran to suspend nuclear talks until sanctions are lifted: website

June 21 - An Iranian website close to moderate circles of the ruling establishment in Iran suggests suspending negotiations with the major world powers over country's nuclear program until the sanctions are lifted.

Believe crisis put off but not for long. Experts meeting will be July 3 in Istanbul. We had suggested July 2 but turns out that is day in 1988 when we shot down Iranian airbus with 290 some folks on board and all died. You can imagine Jalili's speech on that!

We are about to go into a plenary to agree:

- an experts meeting within next two weeks (we may be able to get July2 or another date before we leave)
- a contact after, likely a meeting, of Schmid and Bagheri
- a communication, likely phone or letter, between Ashton and Jalili after to decide what next (if anything) Working on press statement now.

Subject: Re: Outcome

Lousy. Relieved. Concerned. Seriously, everyone is fine. Just another day's work. Lots to discuss. Is as good as we could get and checks enough boxes in this crazy rubix cube. Believe crisis put off but not for long. Experts meeting will be July 3 in Istanbul. We had suggested July 2 but turns out that is day in 1988 when we shot down Iranian airbus with 290 some folks on board and all died. You can imagine Jalili's speech on that!

We are about to go into a plenary to agree:

- an experts meeting within next two weeks (we may be able to get July2 or another date before we leave)
- a contact after, likely a meeting, of Schmid and Bagheri
- a communication, likely phone or letter, between Ashton and Jallili after to decide what next (if anything) Working on press statement now.

Final press statement Ashton is about to deploy:

STATEMENT BY HIGH REPRESENTATIVE/VICE-PRESIDENT CATHERINE ASHTON FOLLOWING TALKS IN MOSCOW, 18-19 JUNE 2012

I would like to start by thanking the Russian government for hosting the talks and, especially Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov for his personal involvement in this process.

As in Istanbul and Baghdad, the E3+3 remain absolutely unified in seeking a swift diplomatic resolution to international concerns regarding Iran's nuclear programme, based on the NPT and the full implementation by Iran of UNSC and IAEA Board of Governors Resolutions.

The E3+3 reiterated a balanced proposal set out in Baghdad, stopping 20 percent enrichment activities, shutting the Fordow nuclear facility and shipping out stockpiled 20 percent enriched nuclear materials, as well as the reciprocal steps that we are willing to take as a first confidence-building measure. We came prepared to make progress and respond to concrete action by Iran.

Iran responded to the elements of the E3+3 proposal put forward in Baghdad. In turn, the E3+3 provided a thorough and comprehensive response to the issues raised by Iran.

We set out our respective positions in what were detailed, tough and frank exchanges. After five plenary sessions and several bilateral meetings we have begun to tackle critical issues. However, it remains clear that there are significant gaps between the substance of the two positions.

We have therefore agreed as follows:

- An early follow-on technical-level meeting in Istanbul on 3 July to provide further clarification about the E3+ 3 proposal; increase the E3+3 understanding of the Iranian response; and study the issues raised by Iran during the sessions;
- This will be followed by contact at the deputy-level between Ms. Schmid and Dr. Bagheri;
- I will then be directly in touch with Dr. Jalili about prospects for a future meeting at the political level.

Outrage at Afghan minister's prostitution comments

KABUL, June 18, 2012 (AFP) - Rights activists on Monday demanded the sacking of the Afghan justice minister after he suggested women's shelters in the war-torn country were home to "immorality and prostitution".

Justice minister Habibullah Ghaleb told a conference organised by the women's affairs committee of the upper house of parliament on Sunday that foreign-funded rights awareness groups had been encouraging young women to defy their parents.

"Mostly they were encouraging girls, saying, 'If your father says anything bad to you don't listen to him, if your mother says anything to you don't listen to them. There are safe houses for you where you can

I spoke with Ashton(out on the street to be more secure) after Jake's call to me and she is fine with plan as outcome with all of us understanding tomorrow may change dynamic, though unlikely to get tougher. She will keep to herself and she and I will work through process. May well urge those who get bilats however to note we are at a tough place and need I's to be more forthcoming since don't want to see breakdown. I think we need to keep pressure on. Finally wanted to alert all that I have SVTS Wednesday 8am Moscow time with colleagues in another country. Will manage however is necessary.

MS -

As Director Sullivan does with his Policy Planning peers, I'm going to start meeting with my PA counterparts around the world. We're kicking off the new initiative with today's first ever US-Sweden Communications Planning Summit (USCoPs).

Overall, I'd describe our discussions as a constructive tour d'horizon of communications issues of mutual concern. But talks are going longer than anyone expected, so I want to give you a readout in case I don't see you until Armenia:

- On adopting a global standard for what font and type should be used on all official press releases and statements: Our opening gambit was Tahoma 10 pt. The Swedes are pretty hard over against it, they feel it's "belligerent" and contrary to the spirit of their neutrality. They also believe it is too aligned with Microsoft. They're countering with Comic Sans MS as a compromise. My gut is that we'll end up with Calibri. Stay tuned.
- On the # of press conference questions: we are in vigorous agreement that the current standard of 2+2 is antiquated and needs to be updated with a new regime. Our idea is aggressive, and might violate the 1954 Convention on Media Inquiries (held on the margins of that year's Trilateral Commission meeting in Vaduz) - which is considered more of an entente than a bona fide accord - but we're focusing on a formula that takes into account population, translation equipment, local issues, freedom of the press, podium height, Jake's anxiety, and other relevant factors. As an example, in the case of Sweden, rather than your press conference today with Bildt being 2+2, it would have been .3+.7; at the other end of the spectrum, China would rate 37+92. Obviously there are still some kinks to work out.
- Devices used to record avails and interviews: All agree this is a moot point, as only Sony and Olympus manufacture recorders, so there are no national interests at stake.

- Not sure how, but Guinea-Bissau got wind of our meeting, so going forward we're expanding to USCoPs+193-190 (USCoPs+3 for short). Format will be PIR+7.

We were hoping to end the talks with a joint communique, but having a hard time coming to an agreement. Not on the content or wording - we are in lockstep on that front. But returning to my first bullet above, we can't settle on a font. I'm not giving up so easily and will continue to hope against hope - but unless I agree ex gracia, we might end up going home empty handed.

But I'll do better with the Yerevanians!

Chinese and Russians had trilat at our suggestion and agreement of E3+3. Also difficult conversation. We are going to have a plenary no later than 6pm where Cathy will read what will be our press statement, including outlining factually our and their ideas, areas of common ground, firmness and commitment, and date and place (June 14-15 in Moscow which appears agreeable to Is) dependent on intense contacts (Ashton-Jallili to get agreement on agenda for said meeting. After Cathy reads statement, will see if have agreement. If not, we will revert to statement that falls short of setting next meeting. Statement makes clear what Is wanted and that we could not agree as they could not agree with all of our ideas. Very tough environment made both easier and more difficult by fact that airport still closed. Will call after plenary.

All-

Besides the fact that a sandstorm has meant a closed airport, today appears to have moved things ahead. Ashton met for less than a half hour with Jallili and then we had plenary for a bit more than two hours. Plenary punctuated by Jallili approaching me at end to say hello and have very brief sentences. Outcome is a draft press statement we have drafted that will say nuclear core, agree to continue discussions on 20% that includes our ideas and theirs, experts meeting next week and political meeting probably June 14-15. We are asking Is not to contradict our statement. Many issues ahead and some work needed first in our govt and then with others. Likely PD meeting with Ashton around June 11 to prepare as well. Ashton due to have bilat shortly with Jallili to see if agree on way forward. Helga already previewed with Bagheri. Could all still fall apart and press management afterwards will be difficult. Nonetheless, looks like we will move forward. More when can talk secure again.

Madam Secretary,

Cathy Ashton has just left for a bilat with Jallili. We hope that leads to enough clarity to head to another plenary tonight or tomorrow morning that would signal an experts meeting within next two weeks followed by a political directors meeting focused on 20%. There have been a number of formal and informal conversations with the Iranians after the long plenary. It appears there is a basis for discussion around gun but not surprisingly, different guide are desired. b1 per DOS

[REDACTED] We expected a bilat with Sergey but that did not happen. Iran met with Ma at lower level. X

Geoffrey Adams had useful informal talk and I sat down with Shartistani and Zohari at their request with all they have been told all day long. There is an [REDACTED] X

So I've gotten down to the bottom of this mystery. Memo was written up as a result of hrc/roberta conversation at summit of the americas. Hrc has conveniently forgotten the discussion. Especially the fact that she suggested panama herself...

So basically, Peru is a must do since hrc feels strongly about the conference. Roberta does endorse a pathways visit if we can set it up far enough in advance but I need to know what you think. Last year as you may remember, we moved dates around a lot so turnout was lame. Leaves Costa Rica and panama.

Subject: RE: WHA trip memo

The first time I saw it was a couple hours ago when we received our copy here in P, but not during the drafting stages. This is my guess as to the thinking behind it:

- The Pathways Ministerial and ACF are the hook for the proposed S travel to the region. The other stops (Costa Rica, Panama, Peru) are likely to take advantage of her already being in the region. As S has attended the Pathways to Prosperity Ministerial in previous years (2009 in El Salvador; 2010 in Costa Rica; and 2011 in the Dominican Republic), WHA may have wanted to put it on her radar again for this year. Given past attendance, it does not seem out of place that they would make the request for her to attend again this year.
- Costa Rica and Panama: WHA has mentioned in the past that they would like high-level travel to Costa Rica and Panama. I think these were also the countries contemplated when we initially discussed your possible travel to Central America. The thinking here is that the other Central American countries have gotten a lot of attention over the months with numerous senior-level visits, and WHA wants to put these countries on the radar as well.
- Peru: President Humala asked POTUS and S when he visited last year as president-elect to engage with Peru on social inclusion issues. They both agreed, and the Secretary asked the Department to lead an interagency technical delegation to Peru (I believe last August/September). Peru then had a reciprocal technical delegation visit to the U.S. [redacted] b5 per DOS [redacted] The proposed 5 travel to Peru is a way to maintain that momentum.

Again, my guess is that Pathways/ACF is the reason behind the proposal, and the other countries were added to fill out the trip. Please let me know if you need any additional information.

SENSITIVE BUT UNCLASSIFIED

May 17, 2012

NOTE FOR THE SECRETARY

FROM: WHA – Roberta S. Jacobson

SUBJECT: (SBU) Travel to WHA in October 2012

(SBU) WHA proposes you travel to the region October 22 through October 26 to advance key U.S. interests in citizen security, expanded economic opportunity and trade, and greater social inclusion. The proposed itinerary is an October 22 visit to Costa Rica; an October 23 visit to Panama; an October 24 visit to Peru, where you would participate in a one-day event focused on women's economic empowerment during the Peruvian government's Social Inclusion Summit; and an October 25 and 26 visit to Cali, Colombia, for the Pathways to Prosperity Ministerial and Americas Competitiveness forum.

(SBU) Costa Rica: Your visit would underscore our commitment to Costa Rica and thank a key regional ally for its strong cooperation on citizen security. President Chinchilla has vocally sought more attention and the White House has been unable to schedule an Oval Office meeting. We want to push Costa Rica to take a greater leadership role in the region on security and energy issues, and your discussions with Chinchilla could be helpful in this regard. Costa Rica has also been a strong supporter of U.S. positions at the UN and the UN Human Rights Council (UNHRC). This would be an opportunity to lobby for their vote in the 2012 UNHRC elections, which Costa Rica has traded away. We are actively seeking to reverse this trade. Your visit could include a site visit to a smart grid project supported by a grant from our Energy and Climate Partnership of the Americas (ECPA). We would also suggest an outreach event with female police officers and prosecutors to highlight Costa Rica's leadership on gender equality issues and the utility of including women in the design and implementation of security efforts.

(SBU) Panama: Your visit to Panama could potentially coincide with the entry into force of the U.S.-Panama Trade Promotion Agreement. Your presence would emphasize our strong trade relationship. Panama is an important partner in Central America that has not had a recent high-level State visit. In your meetings with government officials you could emphasize security cooperation, including on money laundering; human rights, especially trafficking in persons; and the importance of democratic institutions and citizen participation. We would like to urge Panama to take on a greater leadership role within Central America. Your visit could also include a briefing at the Panama Canal regarding the ongoing expansion project and its implications for regional and global trade.

(SBU) Peru: Minister of Social Inclusion and Development Carolina Trivelli and Peruvian First Lady Nadine Herrera are organizing a regional Social and Gender Inclusion Summit, with participation by the Inter-American Development Bank and USAID. The Humala administration has made increasing social inclusion one of its central objectives, and our effective engagement is paying dividends in Peru and in the region. Trivelli is a regional star and the Social Inclusion and Development Ministry will celebrate its first anniversary in October. In particular, your participation would build on the work begun at APEC in September 2011 (Peru was one of five countries in the hemisphere, including the United States, to sign the San Francisco Declaration) and under our Pathways to Prosperity program and the WEAmericas initiative. The Peruvians have suggested a variety of ways for your participation to be a keystone of the week-long conference. Emphasizing the importance of the role of women entrepreneurs at the small and medium enterprise level in driving the economy is a key priority. We also would seek to incorporate security and indigenous outreach events into your program.

(SBU) Colombia: Colombia will host the Americas Competitiveness Forum and the Pathways to Prosperity Ministerial in Cali October 24 to 26. Your attendance at the events will provide opportunities to meet with the hemisphere's foreign, economic, and trade ministers as well as highlight our continuing implementation of the initiatives announced at the Summit of the Americas. We are working with the Colombians and the Department of Commerce to integrate the two events further for a broader conversation on inclusive growth and competitiveness.

(SBU) Colombia also expressed interest in hosting a ministerial meeting for ECPA by the end of the year. Your visit would provide additional impetus for them to do so in October, allowing us to advance the Connect 2022 initiative. Colombia will take over the chair of the Alliance of the Pacific in July and this would be an opportunity to continue our dialogue with these key partners on regional integration.

So I've gotten down to the bottom of this mystery. Memo was written up as a result of hrc/roberta conversation at summit of the americas. Hrc has conveniently forgotten the discussion. Especially the fact that she suggested panama herself...

So basically, Peru is a must do since hrc feels strongly about the conference. Roberta does endorse a pathways visit if we can set it up far enough in advance but I need to know what you think. Last year as you may remember, we moved dates around a lot so turnout was lame. Leaves Costa Rica and panama.

The first time I saw it was a couple hours ago when we received our copy here in P, but not during the drafting stages. This is my guess as to the thinking behind it:

- The Pathways Ministerial and ACF are the hook for the proposed S travel to the region. The other stops (Costa Rica, Panama, Peru) are likely to take advantage of her already being in the region. As S has attended the Pathways to Prosperity Ministerial in previous years (2009 in El Salvador; 2010 in Costa Rica; and 2011 in the Dominican Republic), WHA may have wanted to put it on her radar again for this year. Given past attendance, it does not seem out of place that they would make the request for her to attend again this year.
- Costa Rica and Panama: WHA has mentioned in the past that they would like high-level travel to Costa Rica and Panama. I think these were also the countries contemplated when we initially discussed your possible travel to Central America. The thinking here is that the other Central American countries have gotten a lot of attention over the months with numerous senior-level visits, and WHA wants to put these countries on the radar as well.
- Peru: President Humala asked POTUS and S when he visited last year as president-elect to engage with Peru on social inclusion issues. They both agreed, and the Secretary asked the Department to lead an interagency technical delegation to Peru (I believe last August/September). Peru then had a reciprocal technical delegation visit to the U.S. [REDACTED] b5 per DOS [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] The proposed S travel to Peru is a way to maintain that momentum.

Again, my guess is that Pathways/ACF is the reason behind the proposal, and the other countries were added to fill out the trip. Please let me know if you need any additional information.

NOTE FOR THE SECRETARY

FROM: WHA – Roberta S. Jacobson

SUBJECT: (SBU) Travel to WHA in October 2012

(SBU) WHA proposes you travel to the region October 22 through October 26 to advance key U.S. interests in citizen security, expanded economic opportunity and trade, and greater social inclusion. The proposed itinerary is an October 22 visit to Costa Rica; an October 23 visit to Panama; an October 24 visit to Peru, where you would participate in a one-day event focused on women's economic empowerment during the Peruvian government's Social Inclusion Summit; and an October 25 and 26 visit to Cali, Colombia, for the Pathways to Prosperity Ministerial and Americas Competitiveness forum.

(SBU) Costa Rica: Your visit would underscore our commitment to Costa Rica and thank a key regional ally for its strong cooperation on citizen security. President Chinchilla has vocally sought more attention and the White House has been unable to schedule an Oval Office meeting. We want to push Costa Rica to take a greater leadership role in the region on security and energy issues, and your discussions with Chinchilla could be helpful in this regard. Costa Rica has also been a strong supporter of U.S. positions at the UN and the UN Human Rights Council (UNHRC). This would be an opportunity to lobby for their vote in the 2012 UNHRC elections, which Costa Rica has traded away. We are actively seeking to reverse this trade. Your visit could include a site visit to a smart grid project supported by a grant from our Energy and Climate Partnership of the Americas (ECPA). We would also suggest an outreach event with female police officers and prosecutors to highlight Costa Rica's leadership on gender equality issues and the utility of including women in the design and implementation of security efforts.

NOTE FOR THE SECRETARY

FROM: WHA – Roberta S. Jacobson

SUBJECT: (SBU) Travel to WHA in October 2012

(SBU) WHA proposes you travel to the region October 22 through October 26 to advance key U.S. interests in citizen security, expanded economic opportunity and trade, and greater social inclusion. The proposed itinerary is an October 22 visit to Costa Rica; an October 23 visit to Panama; an October 24 visit to Peru, where you would participate in a one-day event focused on women's economic empowerment during the Peruvian government's Social Inclusion Summit; and an October 25 and 26 visit to Cali, Colombia, for the Pathways to Prosperity Ministerial and Americas Competitiveness forum.

(SBU) Costa Rica: Your visit would underscore our commitment to Costa Rica and thank a key regional ally for its strong cooperation on citizen security. President Chinchilla has vocally sought more attention and the White House has been unable to schedule an Oval Office meeting. We want to push Costa Rica to take a greater leadership role in the region on security and energy issues, and your discussions with Chinchilla could be helpful in this regard. Costa Rica has also been a strong supporter of U.S. positions at the UN and the UN Human Rights Council (UNHRC). This would be an opportunity to lobby for their vote in the 2012 UNHRC elections, which Costa Rica has traded away. We are actively seeking to reverse this trade. Your visit could include a site visit to a smart grid project supported by a grant from our Energy and Climate Partnership of the Americas (ECPA). We would also suggest an outreach event with female police officers and prosecutors to highlight Costa Rica's leadership on gender equality issues and the utility of including women in the design and implementation of security efforts.

(SBU) Panama: Your visit to Panama could potentially coincide with the entry into force of the U.S.-Panama Trade Promotion Agreement. Your presence would emphasize our strong trade relationship. Panama is an important partner in Central America that has not had a recent high-level State visit. In your meetings with government officials you could emphasize security cooperation, including on money laundering; human rights, especially trafficking in persons; and the importance of democratic institutions and citizen participation. We would like to urge Panama to take on a greater leadership role within Central America. Your visit could also include a briefing at the Panama Canal regarding the ongoing expansion project and its implications for regional and global trade.

(SBU) Peru: Minister of Social Inclusion and Development Carolina Trivelli and Peruvian First Lady Nadine Herrera are organizing a regional Social and Gender Inclusion Summit, with participation by the Inter-American Development Bank and USAID. The Humala administration has made increasing social inclusion one of its central objectives, and our effective engagement is paying dividends in Peru and in the region. Trivelli is a regional star and the Social Inclusion and Development Ministry will celebrate its first anniversary in October. In particular, your participation would build on the work begun at APEC in September 2011 (Peru was one of five countries in the hemisphere, including the United States, to sign the San Francisco Declaration) and under our Pathways to Prosperity program and the WEAmericas initiative. The Peruvians have suggested a variety of ways for your participation to be a keystone of the week-long conference. Emphasizing the importance of the role of women entrepreneurs at the small and medium enterprise level in driving the economy is a key priority. We also would seek to incorporate security and indigenous outreach events into your program.

(SBU) Colombia: Colombia will host the Americas Competitiveness Forum and the Pathways to Prosperity Ministerial in Cali October 24 to 26. Your attendance at the events will provide opportunities to meet with the hemisphere's foreign, economic, and trade ministers as well as highlight our continuing implementation of the initiatives announced at the Summit of the Americas. We are working with the Colombians and the Department of Commerce to integrate the two events further for a broader conversation on inclusive growth and competitiveness.

(SBU) Colombia also expressed interest in hosting a ministerial meeting for ECPA by the end of the year. Your visit would provide additional impetus for them to do so in October, allowing us to advance the Connect 2022 initiative. Colombia will take over the chair of the Alliance of the Pacific in July and this would be an opportunity to continue our dialogue with these key partners on regional integration.

Madam Secretary,

b5 per DOS

In addition, I am planning to go to Riyadh after Baghdad to brief GCC ministers and then on to Israel for a Friday morning debrief with them. Helga will join in Riyadh following a discussion Cathy and Bill had in Jordan last week.

b5 per DOS

Finally, my guess is that some time will be spent on changes in Israel and their implications, if any.

Please feel free to call if you need any further information or updates. I should also mention that you will have opportunities in Chicago to speak with your colleagues about the issues and the G8 will include a statement on Iran in the communiqué. Many of my colleagues will be here at the end of next week and will travel to Baghdad from Chicago, stopping in Amman for an evening E3+3 meeting before going into Baghdad on May 23 on our planes. Both our embassies in Jordan and Iraq are doing a terrific job supporting all of the E3+3. And, finally, and importantly, thank you for all of your support for this very complex and difficult effort.

Best,
Wendy

Madam Secretary,

Below is a summary of my latest call with the Chinese and then follow up with Helga. I asked Chris Grantham on my staff to do summary and follow up as I had to go into a meeting and a dinner. Please read the summary and let me know if you are comfortable with this state of play and suggested way forward. Jake is. Bill is in Syracuse and has not been able to respond. If the P5+1 conference call happens before I hear back, I will gauge sense of group and try to stay to our redline of Istanbul first. I am in Dhaka on way to airport, due to fly on first leg in about 90 minutes. Thank you.

Wendy

BEGIN SUMMARY

U/S Sherman spoke with her Chinese counterpart Ma Zhaoxu this morning, who said he spoke with Bagheri yesterday. Ma reported that Bagheri said it could be 1st round Baghdad, 2nd round Istanbul. Ma also said, "we heard another channel in the Iranian side conceded the first round of talks in Istanbul and the second in Baghdad." Overall, Ma said, it was time to solve the venue issue and move on to substance.

We conveyed this to Helga Schmid, who added that she had just spoken with Ryabkov, who had been contacted by Bagheri. Bagheri said nothing to Ryabkov about a Baghdad/Istanbul 1/2 combo. Bagheri only spoke to Ryabkov about Baghdad, saying that the US and UK were fine with first round talks there.

We told Helga there appears to be a deal to be made here, as discussed previously: push for round 1 in Istanbul, and either agree now to a second round in Baghdad, or if others weren't comfortable, leave it open and hint that we'd be open to considering Baghdad on the shortlist for a second round. (Helga also mentioned that they continue to prep logistics with Geneva as a backup round one, and have internally batted around the idea of Brazil, India, Mauritius, etc. for a second round; there may be a three city option out there too).

Helga has requested a conference call with E3+1 political directors in advance of her call tomorrow with Bagheri. We're trying to make that call happen in about 45 minutes (10:30am DC time).

Subject: Iran talks

Madam Secretary,

I am sure Bill and Jake are filling you in but thought it important to summarize where I think we are before you talk with Cathy Ashton or, if you have already, what is state of play. I write from Delhi on my way to Patna in Bihar after breakfast with amb. Burleigh and Dr. Kim who is here today for meetings.

I can be reached through ops if you wish to discuss further. Very much appreciate your talking with Cathy to try to move forward.

Best,
Wendy

I think some may object to cyberspace because it connotes for some the internet freedom agenda. That said, see if Canada is interested or if they would prefer to just do women in international peace and security on day two. Thanks.

Ambassador,

Will do. Shall I check with my Canadian counterpart on whether they be ok doing Cyber-Security? Or just go ahead and list Canada instead of Italy and see how they respond along with everyone else?

In their feedback to the statement, they suggested changing "Cyber-Security" to "Cyberspace," a change S/CCI accepted. The Canadian rationale was that "cyber-security" does not cover the breadth of the issues in the statement and that "cyberspace" is a more balanced title. The Canadians will likely want to change the name of the topic on the agenda.

<http://972mag.com/is-netanyahu-misleading-his-ministers-on-iran/36915/Friday>, March 2 2012 | Yossi Gurvitz | Is Netanyahu misleading his ministers on Iran? Former National Security Advisor Uzi Arad claims Prime Minister Netanyahu ordered him to refrain from providing ministers with contradictory data. Yedioth Ahronoth's weekend supplement published a very long and equally stunning interview with disgraced National Security Advisor Uzi Arad. Arad, who was forced to resign last year, was interviewed by Nachum Barnea and Shimon Shiffer, and told them about the Byzantine court surrounding Netanyahu, and exposed the shocking fact he was interrogated by the Israel Security Agency for hours in the Ben Gurion Airport as he came back from a mission in the US. But there's one point which should trouble every Israeli, which was not emphasized enough. During the interview, Arad – a long-time Netanyahu follower – says twice that he lost favor with the prime minister when he began contradicting his position on Iran during discussions. Even worse from Netanyahu's point of view, he provided the government with a different assessment about Iran and the way to thwart it. After one of those occasions, says Arad, Netanyahu took him aside and ordered him to refrain from contradicting him in the presence of others. According to Arad, Netanyahu was particularly worried that Arad's documents may serve the investigative committee which will follow the Israeli attack on Iran. Netanyahu's bureau did not deny those accusations. This is a point which must be investigated. Neither the PM nor the Minister of Security command the army; the commander is the government, a collective body. A prime minister who refuses to divulge contradictory information to his ministers is a prime minister who sabotages their ability to make an informed decision on that issue. The government's control of the armed forces in Israel has a chequered history. To make a long story short, as long as the government controlled the army, it succeeded or at least managed to avoid disaster. When it let slip of that control – particularly when it allowed factions within the government, with the minister of security always a participant, take control – calamity was often the result. The process' lowest point was probably in 2006, when Shimon Peres, then a minister of something or other, opposed the decision to begin the Second Lebanon War – but voted for it anyway, telling the Winograd investigative committee that "you don't vote against the prime minister in a time of war." Such abdication of responsibility is hardly surprising when you're familiar with Peres' history; yet we must not allow it to repeat itself. Now we are being told by Arad that Netanyahu is blinding his ministers from seeing the full picture. One can hardly think of a better reason for an investigative committee, which, should it find Arad told the truth, send Netanyahu home, and irrevocably tarnish the careers of ministers who agreed to be turned into marionettes. One Shimon Peres is more than enough. This is particularly important as Israel and Iran are not, and have never been, in a state of war. The two countries, testified Foreign Minister David Levi a decade ago, never declared war on each other. Earlier wars and operations were declared by the governments against countries with which Israel was at war; this is not the case with Iran. This war should be debated by the Knesset – particularly if it is true that Netanyahu is misleading his ministers.

Cheryl:

This letter follows up two conversations with the Secretary and has been sometime in the making. I would be grateful as always for your assistance in getting it to her.

Sincerely and all good wishes for the New Year.

Tom Pickering

Dear Madam Secretary:

Following up our brief talk on Monday the 19th and our previous exchange at the Crisis Group dinner on Iran, I send you these few ideas on how the Administration might take advantage of recent developments to further US interests.

I am attaching for your background two letters that relate to two aspects of our relations with Iran – (1) how we might benefit from following up on the Iranian offer to discuss a cessation of enrichment to 20% in connection with providing fuel elements for the Tehran Research Reactor and (2) how we might work toward better communications to avoid conflict by accident or miscalculation.

Iran has raised again the option of ceasing enrichment of uranium to the level of 20% for use in the Tehran Research Reactor (TRR) to produce medical isotopes. It seems clear that while Iran can produce material at 20% enrichment, it cannot now and perhaps for some time manufacture the fuel elements which the reactor requires to continue operation. The cessation of enrichment to 20% would be in return for a quantity of fuel elements. The arrangement holds out possibilities for two areas of expansion – (1) getting Iran to contribute its already produced 20% materials to the project and also (2) to agree not to exceed 5% levels of enrichment, the next level below 20% for which they have a putative civil use. Even if Iran were not willing to contribute its currently held quantity of 20% enriched material, I would encourage exploring the offer with the idea of seeking an agreement because the cap on enrichment at 5% is a solid step on the way to our objective of a cessation and can be described as such, and the offer opens the possibility of further meetings on the nuclear question now reinforced by the Iranian announcement of December 31st.

b1 per DOS

[REDACTED] the announcement on the 31st of December by Said Jalili, the nuclear negotiator, is a further indication of interest [REDACTED]

Taking advantage of this propitious moment to work with Iran to move the relationship in a more positive direction would be valuable and a step back from the path to conflict. Yet such a step now would more likely be successful and even more valuable if it were set in the context of a broader US strategy toward Iran. In order to move toward engagement with Iran, Iran's Supreme Leader will have to be led to understand two central facts: (1) that working with the United States is possible on a fair and equitable basis and (2) that US policy toward Iran is not based on "regime change" -- that there is a genuine intention of the US to work with Iran toward a new relationship. It will take time and a number of actions by the US to persuade the Supreme Leader. This will not be easy, but is the only apparent way to achieve our objectives with Iran over the long run. War, as you and I understand, is simply not a viable option. And if sanctions are to serve their purpose, then we must help to open the door which we want Iranians to walk through.

As we did last year, the small group with which you met stands ready to speak with you further about these opportunities and our thoughts on how best to pursue them on the basis of long and continuing contact with Iranians who are and have been close to the situation in their country and understand the approach of the leadership as well as the various factions contending for influence in the country.

From my experience, I know something of what you have to contend with generally and more specifically regarding Iran, as well as the cost of missed opportunities and failed ones. Please count on our help and support as you address these difficult issues and challenges.

I hope that the apparently revived interest in Iran in meeting with the P5+1 will lead to a contact and an effort to determine seriousness.

With all good wishes for the New Year,

Respectfully,

Thomas R. Pickering.

Madam Secretary,

Thank you for giving me this opportunity as we begin the new year. It is always a privilege to be a small part of making history and trying to help you create a more secure and prosperous world. Your team is great and it is a pleasure to work with them.

I leave tomorrow afternoon for Riyadh and then on to Emirates. If a certain traveler travels, will also stop in Yemen in between though likely will be postponed. So will be back Thursday or Friday morning depending. I think Bill and Jake are briefed on everything from holidays but, of course, am available by phone this weekend or from abroad by regular or secure phone as needed.

I hope you have caught a few rays of family and sun in between many calls, and moments of memory of your mother, and that you, President Clinton, Chelsea, Mark and your whole family have a wonderful new year.

Best,
Wendy

CBS News anchor Scott Pelley caught up with Secretary Panetta on his tour last week of Iraq, Afghanistan and Libya. On the way home, he boarded the jet nicknamed "The Doomsday Plane." This is the command post where he and the president would direct a nuclear war. In an interview for "60 Minutes," we sat down in the compartment where he would execute the commander-in-chief's orders. Panetta told CBS News that Iran needs only one year to build a nuclear weapon.

Pelley: So are you saying that Iran can have a nuclear weapon in 2012?

Panetta: It would probably be about a year before they can do it. Perhaps a little less. But one proviso, Scott, is if they have a hidden facility somewhere in Iran that may be enriching fuel.

Pelley: So that they can develop a weapon even more quickly...

Panetta: On a faster track....

Pelley: Than we believe....

Panetta: That's correct.

Pelley: If the Israelis decide to launch a military strike to prevent that weapon from being built, what sort of complications does that raise for you?

Panetta: Well, we share the same common concern. The United States does not want Iran to develop a nuclear weapon. That's a red line for us and that's a red line, obviously, for the Israelis. If we have to do it we will deal with it.

Pelley: You just said if we have to do it we will come and do it. What is it?

Panetta: If they proceed and we get intelligence that they are proceeding with developing a nuclear weapon then we will take whatever steps necessary to stop it.

Pelley: Including military steps?

Panetta: There are no options off the table

Pelley: A nuclear weapon in Iran is...

Panetta: Unacceptable.

OCT 06 2015

SUBJECT: Federal Bureau of Investigation Request for Production of Records

The Department of State is in receipt of a Request for Production of Records letter from the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) dated September 22, 2015 (Tab 1). This is the first production request following the FBI Preservation of Records requests received by the Department in July and August, 2015. The production request names 33 current or former Department employees for which the FBI requires production of e-mail records or exports. Specifically, the FBI requests unclassified electronic records regarding the @clintonemail.com domain.

You are hereby requested to search your unclassified state.gov e-mail account for any e-mails, documents, or other records regarding the @clintonemail.com domain (i.e. all e-mails that contain any reference to @clintonemail.com including emails to or from that domain, or with that domain on the CC line) from your unclassified mailboxes, .pst files, and Microsoft Exchange Recoverable Items Folders for the time period January 21, 2009, to February 1, 2013. DS Front Office Executive Assistant [REDACTED] will collect any records found as a result of your search.

b6 per DOS
b7C per DOS

If you have questions or need additional guidance pertaining to this request, please address those questions to [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] DS requires both physical and electronic copies of any records responsive to this request. Responsive records are due to [REDACTED] by October 15, 2015. For technical assistance with transferring your electronic records to a CD or DVD, please contact Domestic Consolidated Bureaus Division Chief Trey Jammes, JammesSH@state.gov, (202) 634-0257.

If your search does not result in any responsive records, you are required to certify this result by completing the Certification of Records Review (Tab 2).

Subject: Sarajevo -- written press statements?

EUR wants to know if we can release written press statements by the Secretary and Ashton in Sarajevo, since we cancelled the oral statements. Seems reasonable. If okay by you, I'll task EUR to prepare a draft for PA. Thanks. Julieta Didn't mention in yesterday's call, but S and Ashton will still need to make statements after the Tri-Presidency meeting in Sarajevo. We've pushed back on the idea of Q&A to keep things consistent, but need that minimum engagement with the press for the stop to have impact.

Thanks again. Looking forward to the call today.

Colleagues, Thanks for your understanding while we dealt with Mother Nature. We will convene our trip call at 3:30 pm EDT – in 15 minutes. Please dial in to 202-647-0817 five minutes before the call and use access code 861320. If you have trouble dialing in, please call Ops at 202-647-1512.

Attached and pasted below in the new schedule we have put together to handle the weather. Unfortunately, it means some of you will see us sooner than expected, and other stops are shifted around.

We will maintain the calls tomorrow at Sunday at 2:00 pm EDT.

Thanks and talk soon. Julieta

Re: Request for Production of Records

Dear Assistant Secretary Starr:

This request supplements preservation requests previously sent to the U.S. Department of State on July 27, 2015, July 29, 2015, August 5, 2015 and August 18, 2015 by providing initial guidance for the production of relevant files. This request identifies a subset of U.S. Department of State employees for whom records should be produced in accordance with the following guidance. This is the first of such production requests and does not release the U.S. Department of State from its obligation to preserve the records cited in the referenced preservation requests. Future notification will be provided when this obligation no longer applies.

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code Section 2703(f), this letter is a formal request for the production of all stored communications, records and other evidence in your possession regarding the domain account @clintonemail.com from the personal mailboxes, or Personal Storage Folders (i.e., .pst files), and from the Microsoft Exchange Recoverable Items Folder, from the unclassified email account of the below listed individuals for the period of January 21, 2009 to February 1, 2013.

The FBI further requests that you provide the export of all mailboxes, or Personal Storage Folders (i.e., .pst files), from the unclassified, secret and top secret email accounts of the below listed individuals. The export should include the entire content of each mailbox and any items from the Microsoft Exchange Recoverable Items Folder for the specified time range. The entire content is requested because relevant items are unlikely to directly contain the unclassified @clintonemail.com domain.

b6
b7E

Findings relevant to this request should be exported and identify the user's full name as well as the system that the relevant item(s) originated from. A log file should also be provided to fully document any instances in which the requested information could not be furnished due to technical limitations or due to errors that occurred during the export process. The FBI also requests a complete copy of any computer banners from any U.S. Department of State computer system on which relevant records are found.

Additionally, it is requested that you contact those individuals listed above, who are current U.S. Department of State employees, and request that they preserve and produce all stored communications, records and other evidence in their possession regarding the domain account @clintonemail.com. However, the U.S. Department of State should not contact any individuals listed above who are no longer active employees of the U.S. Department of State.

This preservation and production request applies to the following records and evidence:

- A. The contents of any communication or for the accounts any associated accounts, and any information associated with those communications or files, such as the source and destination email address or IP address.
- B. All records and other evidence relating to the subscriber(s), customer(s), account holder(s), or other entity(ies) associated with the requested account including, without limitation, subscriber names, user names, screen names or other identities, mailing addresses, residential addresses, business addresses, e-mail addresses and other contact information, telephone numbers or other subscriber number or identity, billing records, information about the length of service and the types of services the subscriber or customer utilized, and any other identifying information, whether such records or other evidence are in electronic or other form; and

C. All connection logs and records of user activity for the requested account, including:

1. Connection date and time;
2. Disconnect date and time;
3. Method of connection (e.g., telnet, ftp, http);
4. Data transfer volume;
5. User name associated with the connection and other connection information, including the Internet Protocol address of the source of the connection;
6. Telephone caller identification records; and
7. Connection information for other computers to which the user of the above-referenced accounts connected, by any means, during the connection period, including the destination IP address, connection time and date, disconnect time and date, method of connection to the destination computer, the identities (account and screen names) and subscriber information, if known, for any person or entity to which such connection information relates, and all other information related to the connection from ISP or its subsidiaries.
8. Means and source of payment for such service (including any credit card or bank account number) and billing records.

D. Any other records and other evidence relating to the requested account. Such records and other evidence include, without limitation, correspondence and other records of contact by any person or entity about the above-referenced account, the content and connection logs associated with or relating to postings, communications and any other activities to or through the requested account, whether such records or other evidence are in electronic or other form.
